Bobbie's background as a nurse and business entrepreneur allowed her to see first hand the pain, stress and frustration that so many people experience at home and work. Her message reflects a universal theme as old as time, yet fresh and relevant for today's hectic life style. When you have your health, family and priorities balanced, life just seems to fall into place. For the few times when it doesn't - laugh! Learn to use laughter to let out little puffs of pain!

Bobbie's natural humor emerged while speaking before groups and as a result, more and more groups began asking Bobbie to appear as an afterdinner humorist. Bobbie has a message ... one of finding balance in life. The message is simple and as old as time...If you have your health and your family, you just about have it all. So lighten up.
